Yellow
is a huge entity
living in the lobby of CIVIC
that only opens once every solar cycle.
No one knows where it came from...
Did it fall from the sky?
Did it come out of the ground?
It feeds on air, it's mysterious, it's elusive and strangely alive.

yell, low high — a spatial intervention at CIVIC by Masterstudio Scenography, repurposes a hot air balloon's massive fabric to construct a sculptural space that hosts an olfactory and sonic experience in its inside.

On June 11th and on June 14th, musicians and dancers are invited to play the space, exploring its aesthetic and material potentials.
